KM

Good morning,

When I went back and checked some of the errors I had noticed in the TCEQ database, it appears many of them are still there. I am not sure if this helps, but I have attached a PDF of the list (and email) I sent to Central Registry detailing the RCRA errors I had documented.

With gratitude,

Kyle Moring

An important goal of EPA is to provide the public with current and accurate environmental information. EPA receives questions about the accuracy or completeness of the information it provides to the public. Because the information in EPA's data systems comes from programs like your own, our policy is to refer these questions to the organization which owns the information to determine if it is correct or whether it needs to be changed. Our goal is to be as responsive as possible to the public. As such, we ask that you review the information and respond as soon as possible. We appreciate your efforts in assuring that the public has access to high quality environmental information. Thank you for your support.

Please see the Error Notification Interface at EPA's Envirofacts website (https://frs-public.epa.gov/ords/frs_public2/ets_grab_error.smart_form) for more information about the Integrated Error Correction Process.

If you have questions about the error reporting process, please feel free to reply to Error Tracker.

If your question is related to the Enforcement Compliance and History Online (ECHO) Web site, please contact Scott Fontenot (fontenot.scott@epa.gov) or 202-566-2236.
